38 UPHOLD BRITISH IN SUPREME TRIBUNAL

Turk-Greek War to Come Up Without Forecast Of Quick Solution

STRAITS IN PAWN

France Approves Helping U. S. Fight Famine In Russia

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Aug. 4.—The London correspondent of the Temps states that the French Ambassador in London received yesterday the reply of the British Government, accepting the invitation to attend the meeting of the Supreme Council on Tuesday next. The British delegation will comprise 38 persons, its principal members being Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Curzon, Sir Harold Stuart, British High Commissioner in Upper Silesia, and Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who will explain the British official view on the reparations questions.

The Italian delegation will leave Rome on Saturday, and reach Paris on Sunday evening. Signor Bonomi, Prime Minister, will be accompanied by Marquis della Torreta, Foreign Minister, and a number of experts who have not yet been designated.

As regards the Near East problem, the Temps understands that the question of the Straits will be discussed by the Council. As for the idea of Allied mediation between the Greeks and Turks, all depends on the conclusion which is come to as the result of the exchange of views among the Prime Ministers of France, Great Britain and Italy. There does not appear to be any likelihood of an immediate termination of hostilities, and it is improbable that any offer of intervention will be made, the Temps continues. In the contrary event, the Greeks and Turks might be invited to a conference, and the Treaty of Sevres would be reconsidered.

French opinion is unanimous in approving of the action of M. Briand in proposing to the Allies to place on the agenda of the Supreme Council the question of Allied co-operation with the United States in fighting the famine in Russia.

Perhaps Germany May Send Band To Meet 'Em

Paris, August 4.—The German Minister of Foreign Affairs has replied to the representatives of the Allied Powers to the effect that the German Government will certainly raise no objection to the joint Allied demand for the contingent transportation of troops to Upper Silesia, and he promised to confer on the matter with the Minister of Communications the same day. The French Ambassador left Berlin for Paris on Wednesday evening.

TO CONSIDER SANCTIONS..
(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—In addition to Upper Silesia, the questions of war-criminals, the continuance of the sanctions against Germany, and the Near East will figure in the agenda of the Supreme Council.

The situation in the Near East is considered in authoritative circles in London as most difficult, it having been complicated by the intransigeant attitude of the Angora Government.

NOTABLES TO ATTEND

Paris, August 4.—M. Briand has issued invitations to attend the Supreme Council to Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States. Viscount Ishii, the Japanese Ambassador here, will represent Japan, and Colonel George Harvey, the American Ambassador to Great Britain, will be asked to represent the United States. An invitation will also be extended to Belgium if the question of the Leipzig trials is to be discussed.

HOW TO SPLIT SILESIA?

Paris, Aug. 3.—The committee of Allied experts is still examining the question of the apportionment of Upper Silesia. The experts are to make their recommendations known before the meeting of the Supreme Council on August 8.

BELGIAN DEBT

Paris, August 4.—The Conference of Allied Ministers of Finance and financial experts will be held at Paris at the same time as the meeting of the Supreme Council to settle numerous difficult questions left in suspense by the agreements concluded last May, including the cost of the troops of occupation, the determination of the amount of the Belgian debt to the Allies, and the reparations in kind.

U.S. Court In China Is Subject Of Legislation To Amend The Existing Law

Major Holcomb Brings Word Of Measure That May Permit Other Federal Judges To Sit On Bench In Shanghai

Probably the most noteworthy detail of news that Maj. C. F. Holcomb brought with him when he arrived yesterday on the Empress of Russia after a five-months' leave of absence in America is the fact that steps are being taken at Washington to supplement the existing law relating to the United States Court for China in a way that will make it possible for federal judges from other districts to preside here in emergencies that are defined in a measure that has been introduced in the lower House of Congress.

On his arrival yesterday with Mrs. Holcomb, Major Holcomb was greeted at the tender by a large group of American officials and friends after which an informal reception was held at his office in the U. S. Court building to which a number of baskets of flowers had been sent by friends. All present expressed pleasure at Major Holcomb's return and over the fact that he will retain the post of United States District Attorney for China, but the gladdest figure in the assemblage undoubtedly was that of Delaware, Major Holcomb's chow dog who gave every evidence of his joy over the return of his master and mistress.

Another affair of welcome for the returing official that has been arranged is a banquet which will be held next Wednesday evening at the Astor House. This is to be given by members of the American Far Eastern Bar Association and friends of Major Holcomb.

TAKES UP COURT QUESTION

Major Holcomb said last night that while he was in Washington he had taken up with officials of the Department of State questions in connection with the proposed measure relating to the United States Court for China and a number of other questions pertaining to legal procedure.

Under the provisions of the law that has been introduced the President is empowered in the event of the death, disability, absence or resignation of the Judge presiding over the United States Court for China to assign to the Court a Judge from another Federal district.

Under the existing law the Judge is appointed by the President and the appointment is confirmed by the Senate. The appointment as made at present is therefore for the specific service of presiding over the United States Court for China and by reason of this it is now impossible for other federal judges to preside in Shanghai as no other federal judge has been empowered to sit in China.

Major Holcomb said that the new measure was introduced in the House of Representatives in the first week in June by Congressman S. G. Porter, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, who was a member of the party of legislators that visited Shanghai in July of 1920. The measure is now in the hands of the house committee on Foreign Affairs.

Another measure concerning which Major Holcomb advised with officials of the Department of State and the Department of Justice is an act that will make possible the extradition from or to American federal districts of offenders, who have fled. The proposed measure, which Major Holcomb said was being drafted by officials of the Department of State when he left and will be presented in the lower house, is to supplement existing laws concerning which doubts have been raised and which have been found to be too cumbersome.

Major Holcomb expressed the view that the federal incorporation act, which has come to be called the China Trade act, will be enacted in a short time in a form that will be satisfactory to American commercial interests in China. While he was in Washington Major Holcomb said he had added his support to the efforts that were being made by Mr. Carl Seitz and Mr. J. B. Powell, representing the American Chamber of Commerce, of Shanghai, to obtain favorable action on the bill.

This bill is now before the Senate and when Major Holcomb was informed that recent reports received here indicated that it was in a fair way to be wrecked through overloading in the upper house, he said he believed nevertheless that it would emerge in its completed form with all those provisions held to be essential by business interests in China intact.

Times are hard in the United States, Major Holcomb said. He added that while prices continue to fall they are still high and he expressed the belief that labor in America will have to accept a general reduction of wages before an adjustment can be brought about.

He said conditions are particularly bad in districts dominated by the iron and steel industries, many of which have been forced to close down, but he added that he understood that textile industries were not so hard hit and are weathering the storm.

While in the United States Major and Mrs. Holcomb visited Major Holcomb's home in Newcastle, Delaware and spent some time in New York.

Mr. Ralph Dawson Of Asia Bank Here On Inspection Trip

London, August 5.—In the course of a book newly published in Berlin, entitled Hohenzollern, Herr Heining, as official of the Prussian Ministry of Finance, shows that since the armistice, Prussia has advanced 69,000,000 marks to the ex-Kaiser, the security being his property in Germany. Herr Heining refers to Wilhelm's impatience at the long delays and negotiations and quotes a communication from the exiled monarch in August 1919, complaining that he was no longer able to trespass on Count Bentinck's hospitality and that he must have money to buy his own house otherwise he would return to Germany. This threat was sufficient and the money was forthcoming immediately.

TRIPLE DASH UPON TUCHUN IS PLANNED BY HUPEH FORCE

Already Have Penetrated Twenty Li Over Border In Quick Foray

BATTLE IS NEAR

Wang Stops Railway And Boat Service Is At Minimum

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 3.—According to reports received here, the Hupeh insurgents and their Hunanese Allies are planning an attack on Hupeh from three directions, one force, believed to consist of the Hupeh People's Army, under General Chen Tsao-ping, and former Pacification Commissioner, Kung Keng, advancing along the railway between Changsha and Wuchang; a second on its right attacking Shihshu and Kungan, and a third army at Tungching on the left. The latter two bodies are understood to be made up of Hunanese troops under Generals Sung and Liu.

Hunanese troops are already stated to have penetrated twenty li beyond the border of Hupeh, and heavy fighting is expected. Various skirmishes have also occurred at Yungloushih, where both Hunan and Hupeh are concentrating in force. General Wang Chan-yuan, however, reports that his army is in the stronger position.

Traffic on the railway between Wuchang and Yochow has been interrupted by General Wang's troops, while the Hunan section, from Yochow to Changsha, is in the hands of the Hunanese, who are imposing a strict censorship on mails and telegrams, and have stopped the transmission of railway telegrams. They have also removed rails from the line at a point some distance south of Yungloushih.

A third of the railway's rolling-stock is in the hands of the Hunan forces, while General Wang's army holds the remaining two-thirds.

The Hunanese have also seized large sums, consisting of the proceeds from the sale of railway tickets at Yochow and Changsha, and the Acting Managing Director has lodged a strong protest, as these funds were pledged as security for the service of foreign loans.

RIVER TRAFFIC CUT

River communication between Wuchang and Changsha is completely suspended, save for a British and a Japanese merchant steamer, which are still plying between the two cities.

It is stated that General Chien Tso-ping and ex-Commissioner Kung, who, after plotting unsuccessfully in Peking, against General Wang Chan-yuan, have raised a force of some 20,000 men, under the name of the "Hupeh People's Army," which has the support of Hunanese troops. Official reports, however, place the strength of the former body at 6,000.

The attitude of the Tuchun of Hunan, General Chao Heng-ti, is causing some anxiety. It appears that, while he at first appeared friendly towards General Wang, the Hupeh insurgents now have his support, and it is believed that the Cantonese Government has taken advantage of the opportunity to make overtures, and that he is in league with the followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

Contrary to local reports that General Chao had communicated with the Central Government, expressing his loyalty to Peking, the Government has received no direct communication from him recently.

General Tsao Kun's troops under General Siao Yao-nan and General Chin Yung have arrived in Hupeh. Some of the troops despatched from Kiangsi to support General Wang have also arrived.

NAY, NAY, SAYS NEI, I QUIT

Peking, August 3.—Mr. Nei Hsien-fan, Civil Governor of Anhui, has submitted his resignation to the Government, apparently owing to his unpopularity. It is expected that the Government will nominate Mr. Liu Tsao-yuan, formerly Civil Governor of Shensi, for the post.

Oldest Song Of All Is The Coolie Symphony Of Labor

By Bruce Hopper

"Aiyo," sings Strophe at the pilot end of the bamboo pole.

"Aiyo," pipes in Anti-Strophe at the rudder, dropping easily into the barber shop minor of the leader.

The pace is set, the cadence instinctively agreed upon and then it is:

"Aiyo, aiyo,
"Ann-hur, yo-hur,
"Aiyo, aiyo,
"Ann-hur, yo-hur."

And the great unwieldly load of household furniture or something else swings down the street to the rhythmic song of syncopated coolie labor.

When China was made the Creator ordained that the land should ring not to epic's lofty rhyme, but to the lilting catch rhythms of the coolie symphony. Who has not heard it, the hymn of the carrying pole, the crescendo spiritos of the pile driver, the up and down cadence of the chanties at the foot pumps in Chinese rice paddies?

Almost every act which demands an organised physical effort is in China syncopated in a way to make the work lighter, and more pleasant. The coolie is the one human being who really seems to enjoy his work. He endows it with rhythmic power. No matter what he is set to do it must be done in tempo, and like the gleeman and madrigal songsters he is never at a loss for a ditty or a ballad which will fit the job in hand.

The chants and rhythms vary with the kind of motion necessary. The sailor of the old clipper days had a lilt and heave-ho for every function on the ship, making fast at the capstan, hoisting the main sail, getting under way, piping down, and so on. And the Chinese coolie has his collection of chanties and rhythmic measures, whether he is hauling on the track line of a junk in the Yangtsze gorges, rowing a boat, spearing fish, or just moving baskets about the godown.

Perhaps the trackers on the river have the most interesting chanties, for they sing of the joys and pleasures of life in the towns they visit. Most of the rhythms, however, are meaningless, and only serve to keep time.

The coolies driving piles on The Bund these days pull and slack to:

"Aiya, aitso, annyo,
Aiya, aitso, annyo,
Ai——yo, ah——yo, Hun-ah,
Aitso, Hunah,
Hun-ah, hun-ah."

The hammer rises and falls in perfect time, and only when the pile is driven home does the song cease.

Carrying a coffin is lilted to a special aria, which is doletul, but not slow:

"Yah-hur, yah-hur,
Yah-hur, wei-hur,
Wei-hur, yah-hur....."

The carol of the chair bearers varies with the section of the country, condition of the road, and the weather, hot or cool, wet or dry. A break in the rhythmic march happens every few minutes to allow the coolies to change shoulders, which in western China comes when the leader calls out: "Ban-co!" But the shift is set to three beats, so the tempo is not lost.

The invading foreigner can not distinguish between the tweedledee and the tweedledum of the oratorio, but the rhythm is contagious, and enjoyable. He who wakens in the morning to the "aiyo, aiyo" of the coolies in the street should not be annoyed, nor regret the loss of sleep which was troubled any way, for what he hears is the eternal song of labor.

When the first Pharaohs drove their slaves to hew the stone and build the pyramids they heard that same rhythm and beat, that instinct of human beings to make their toil easier by keeping time with their work.

That monotonous chant is still heard along the Nile as no where else in the world. Great bodied fellaheen, built like gods in bronze, operate the shadufs which lift the water of life from the sacred river to the thirsty fields. All day on the Nile one hears the song of the shadufs, beating, lifting, dying, always in swing, and always musical.

From the strikes and summary demands of labor in the western world it is pleasant to find a place where labor dignifies herself. The Chinese coolie is not only the best natured laborer in the world, but a true poet who sings at his work, a troubadour unto himself. He balladates, he syncopates, and thus enjoys a life which to others would be unbearable slavery.

DOMINIONS HOLD RIGHT TO CHOOSE DELEGATES

Conference Policy Is One Of Laissez Faire As To Constitution

YEOMAN SERVICE

Harding's Proposal And Peace Of Europe Are Burning Topics

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—Reuter's Agency learns that the discussions of the Imperial Conference, which concludes tomorrow when the report will finally be adopted, covered a considerably wider range than was indicated in the meagre official accounts. One of the most important debates centered on the constitution of the Empire, in regard to which it is believed that the conference adopted the policy of laissez-faire, contenting itself with declaring against the suggestion of a special conference to discuss the matter and affirming the right of the Dominions to nominate Cabinet Ministers to represent the respective countries in future consultations with the British Prime Minister.

In the domain of foreign affairs the questions of the distribution to parts of the Empire of the indemnity to be received from Germany in respect of reparations was settled. No announcement was made regarding the percentages allocated, but it is asserted that the United Kingdom receives something over four-fifths of the Empire's total, the remainder being allocated to the Dominions and Colonies in proportion to the sacrifices of each.

RENDER YEOMAN SERVICE

The Conference of Prime Ministers rendered yeoman service in the discussion of Great Britain's outstanding difficulties in the field of foreign politics, notably in regard to Upper Silesia. A wide field was covered in a series of confidential talks, the outcome of which appears to have been a resolute decision to have fulfilled in their entirety the peace treaties signed between the Allies and their late enemies.

It is known also that President Harding's invitation to a disarmament conference was discussed at considerable length, together with the coincident suggestion of a preliminary conference between the portions of the Empire interested and the United States and Japan. The suggestion was, however, eventually dropped owing to lack of agreement.

The defense of the Empire is said to have occupied most of the time of the Conference, it being discussed from every standpoint. The conversations were doubtless overshadowed by President Harding's proposal for a disarmament conference.

But the views of the conference seem to have been in favor of a one-power standard for the Empire, the Dominions undertaking the defense of their respective territories. On the question of Imperial communications, the conference is stated to have expressed strong views. The matter of wireless communication revealed some divergence of opinion.

It is understood that the Australian delegate contended vigorously for stations of sufficiently high power to enable Australia to communicate direct with England as against the opposing view of more stations of less power. The latter view is believed to have gained the day, it being decided that Great Britain should complete stations in the territory under her control while as far as might be necessary, Australia, South Africa and India should also erect the necessary stations within their borders, with New Zealand and Canada co-operating in the chain.

SHIPPING IS TOPIC

The work of the Imperial Shipping Committee was overhauled and the suggestion to continue the committee under a royal charter was put forward, but dropped in the absence of unanimity.

Regarding the question of Empire news services, the conference is understood to have contented itself with approving the resolution of the Imperial press conference at Ottawa in 1920 on the reduction of press rates.

Among minor subjects, the conference is believed to have adopted an interesting resolution in the direction of an Empire conference of officials with a view to obtaining a uniform system of granting patents, while a series of resolutions dealing with settlement within the Empire were adopted, the South African delegates dissenting from the scheme proposed in view of the limited field for white labor in South Africa.

Questions of the League of Nations, status of Indians in the Dominions and naturalisation of aliens were debated at length, also the subject of a condominium in the New Hebrides. On the last named question it is understood that Hughes submitted a proposal to acquire certain French interests in the group, and the conference is stated to have agreed to enforcement of the protocol signed early in the War.

Popular Sergeant In Police Department Is Invalided Home

A large number of fellow officers of Sergeant W. M. Calder, popular member of the police department and veteran of the world war, who is being invalided and leaves for Canada today, gathered yesterday afternoon at Louza police station canteen to wish him a pleasant journey and speedy recovery and to present him with a token of the esteem in which he is held.

Sub-Inspector Crookdake made the presentation speech, voicing the regret of his fellows for Sergeant Calder's departure and alluding to his long and effective service with the force. He then presented the departing sergeant with a handsome, inscribed wallet, containing £42 sterling.

Sergeant Calder has served in the police department for nine years. In 1915 he volunteered for war service and joined the 9th Battalion of the Black Watch. He was wounded in France and after his recovery rejoined his regiment only to be wounded again. At the close of the war he returned to Shanghai and resumed his work with the police, but unfortunately his health failed and at the request of his physicians he was invalided. He sails today by the Suwa Maru and after a short holiday in Canada will proceed to England, where it is the hope of his friends that his health will be improved.

CHURCHILL CALLS FOR AIRSHIP'S AID

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 4.—Replying to questions in the House of Commons today, Mr. Winston Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies, quoted a resolution adopted by the Imperial Conference on Tuesday on the subject of airships.

"The Conference," he said, "carefully considered the report of Mr. Churchill's Committee on Imperial Communications, and is of the opinion that the proposals contained therein should be submitted to the Governments and Parliaments of the different parts of the Empire. On the understanding that the cost will be in the region of £1,800 monthly, they recommend, pending such consideration, that the existing material, so far as it can be used for the development of Imperial Air Communications, should be retained."

BRITISH NAVY'S PLACE VITAL IS CHURCHILL'S FIAT

Must Have Efficient Ships Else How Can Ask U. S. And Japan To Quit

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—Mr. Churchill, in the course of his speech at the conclusion of the naval debate in the House of Commons last night, said that our hope in the Washington conference was sincere and intence, and our interest in it was superior to that of almost any other Power; but, unless the ships being built by Japan and America were to be scrapped, no disarmament proposition that might be agreed to at Washington would be relevant to our decision in respect of the construction of the four capital ships to replace the four obsolete ones.

If the construction of these, he continued, were not commenced now, we should be in a position of naval inferiority in the future. We must maintain the naval position of Great Britain, and never allow British sea power to fall to such a point where we might be tempted to make compromising agreements, in the desperate hope of supplementing our own exertions by the strength of others. We must rest upon our own independent strength; only thus should we be able at the Washington Conference to play the part of a real peace maker, the Colonial Secretary concluded.

NEW SITUATION IN VLADIVOSTOK HAS MUSTY TONE

Nothing Has Been Done And Dark Clouds Still Mass Loftily On Horizon

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, July 28.—The position is a little clearer now than it has been for some time past. After the Merkulov coup d'etat, a period of stagnation set in which rendered it difficult to say anything interesting or useful. Nothing has been achieved during the period of rest, and now dark clouds are once more gathering on the political horizon.

Ataman Semenoff's arrival in Vladivostok was the first blight on the prospects of the new Government, as it immediately aroused feelings of distrust in the minds of the population and caused many who had become tired of the Communits, and who were on the point of lending their support to the new regime, to return to their former extreme beliefs. It is continually being asked why, if Semenoff is really the Russian patriot that he claims to be, he persists in spoiling these anti-Bolshevik movements by interfering with his absurd methods of the dark ages, which are considered not one whit better than those of the Bolsheviki.

The next set-back was the action of the Government itself in dispersing the meeting of workmen which was discussing what attitude to adopt in the elections to the Popular Assembly. This step was commonly thought worthy of the old gendarme system and it caused the workmen to boycott the elections altogether.

Not satisfied with this, the Government then proceeded to quarrel with the Zemstov, an institution which has always suffered at the hands of the reactionaries and the Bolsheviki.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the elections to the Vladivostok Popular Assembly have proved a failure, and that the area under the jurisdiction of the Vladivostok Government is decreasing instead of increasing, as it first promised to do when the Kappel troops overthrew the Antonov regime.

PROPAGANDA TOO SLOW, COMPLAINS NORWEGIAN HOUSE

Harmsworth Explains How This Alleged News Service Is Sent Out

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 3.—Complaints have recently been made in the Norwegian Parliament that the information supplied by the British Foreign Office to the Norwegian Government was belated, unreliable and given a bias in accordance with the views of the British Government, and that it was published without any statement as to its origin.

The question was raised in the House of Commons yesterday evening, when Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary to the Foreign Office, explained that this news service was transmitted by the Admiralty wireless and prepared by a staff of three at the Foreign Office among their other duties. This service, he concluded, would be continued as long as the House were prepared to sanction the expenditure.

Mr. Robert Donald, formerly Editor of the Daily Chronicle, in a letter to the papers on this subject, says that, as other countries are using wireless very largely for propaganda purposes, we should do the same, but "as we are instinctively suspicious of news selected by a Government department, this selection should be handed over to an independent news agency, which will act quicker and better than the official newsman, who inevitably gets a wrong perspective, and the national interests would be kept in view all the same."

More Trouble For Strikers; Lawyers Marching On Kobe

(Reuter's Pacific Service),

Kobe, August 5.—The Governor of Hyogo, Mr. Ariyoshi, has officially announced his intention of mediating in the dockyard strike, and has issued a statement to the press, guaranteeing to the workmen a discharge allowance, the adoption of the factory committee system and recognition of the men's union, as conditions of a strike settlement.

The situation in regard to the Mitsubishi strike has become somewhat worse, owing to the decision of the strikers to turn over the conduct of the strike to the Yuaikai leaders, at present in Kobe.

Half a dozen prominent lawyers are coming to Kobe to bring an action against the police, who caused the death of strikers from sword wounds in the back.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 5.—The death took place this morning at the Rockefeller Institute, Peking, from internal cancer, of Mr. Frank L. Fearon, a widely known and popular resident of Tientsin. The funeral will be held at Tientsin tomorrow.

News of Mr. Fearon's death was received with deepest regret by his many friends here. Mr. Fearon was formerly a resident of Shanghai, leaving here several years ago for Tientsin. He was active in sport as well as business here and had a wide circle of friends. He was about 38 years of age and was the son of the late Mr. "Jim" Fearon. He is survived by his widow and a sister, Mrs. C. R. Burkill, of Shanghai. Mr. R. I. Fearon is a cousin. As a mark of respect the Clay interport pigeon shoot between Shanghai and Tientsin has been postponed.

Questions Whether Irish Are Not Using Armistice To Load Their Weapons

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—With reference to the report that the Ulster Cabinet refused to have anything to do with the Government's offer to Mr. de Valera, it is authoritatively announced that Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, has so far received no invitation from Mr. de Valera. The situation is substantially unchanged, and no fresh crisis has arisen. Sir James Craig presided at a meeting of the North Ireland Cabinet at Belfast today.

London, August 4.—In the House of Commons today, Colonel Archer-Shee, Unionist, pressed for a definite statement on the Sinn Fein negotiations before the recess, or, at least for a secret session.

Mr. Chamberlain declined, upon which Colonel Archer-Shee asked whether the rebels had been given any time limit in which to reply, and alleged that they were using the truce to consolidate their organisation, but Mr. Chamberlain deprecated such questions. In reply to cries of "Why?" he replied: "Because they would not be conducive to a peaceful solution."

London, August 5.—It is officially announced in Dublin that a full session of the Dail Eireann has been called for August 16. Summonses have been issued to all members including thirty-six who are either imprisoned or interned.

BRITAIN GOES FROM SHORTAGE TO GLUT OF COAL

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 4.—A coal glut in Great Britain in the near future is the prediction of the London Coal Exporters' Association in a letter to the Prime Minister, protesting against the present high prices which are militating against the export and against the industry. The letter points out that the coal output is already in excess of any period this year although the mines are not fully working.

The journal Compendium says that the British coal export trade has returned to normal channels, including the French and Russian markets, with which nothing much was expected to be done this year. Immediately the pits re-started, enquiries and then orders came from every country in Europe, which were eager to mix British coal with the inferor Belgian, German and American coal with which they were already largely stocked.

Sumatra Maru Is Sighted On Fire

Grass And Leaves Are Diet Of Poor Starving Russians

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 5.—The lack of communication and transports in Russia prevents an accurate estimation of the present situation, nevertheless the piecemeal reports emerging depict the blackest state of affairs there and speak of appalling sufferings. Whole towns and villages are compelled to feed on grass, leaves and offal.

The horror is accentuated by the drought, and in some districts cholera is raging. Hordes of peasants are wandering about aimlessly and dying by the roadside. Poland, Lithuania and Finland are faced with the possibility of famine and immigration on a wholesale scale.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

SCIENCE VERSUS RELIGION TOPIC OF DR. FOSDICK

Kuling Conference Hears An Address On Long Drawn Controversy

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuling, Aug. 2.—The second session of the Kuling Convention was opened this morning by Bishop Birney of the Methodist Episcopal Church who spoke on the Inner Attitude. He pointed out that the deeper elements of life were not found in orthodoxy nor in service nor in scholarship nor in obedience but in the inner spirit of the soul. The bishop urged his hearers to be open minded to the truth of God from whatever avenue it might come.

Bishop Birney was followed by Dr. Fosdick who took as his subject Science and Religion. The speaker began by saying that there was a strong current of thought among people today that science was sufficient for life and that religion was negligible. He said that many were putting their trust in man and things and leaving no place for the spiritual elements of life.

He then showed that after all the facts were known there was still a great need for a spiritual interpretation of these facts. He maintained that we could not live in a universe of uninterpreted facts and added that the gospel of Christ gave the most wonderful interpretation of life known.

Citing an experience of two men who were told that they had but two months to live Dr. Fosdick said that one collapsed when he heard the news while the other looked ahead with faith and joy to the great adventure. One was a materialist, the other a Christian. Happiness was not a matter of outward circumstances but of inward attitude and interpretation.

Science gives power but unless this power is rightly applied it will be used to destroy our civilization. After science has given us all it has, there is still something. The fruits of the spirit are peace and joy. "Who shall deliver me from this dead body," cried Paul. It was not science but the spirit of God that gave him freedom.

The convention is the largest and most enthusiastic ever held at Kuling. Aside from the two addresses given daily by Dr. Fosdick other important lectures are scheduled by Bishop Roots, Dr. P. F. Price, Dr. M. G. Kyle, Rev. G. G. Warren, Dr. R. A. Torrey and Bishop Birney.

Bolshevik Threatens Student Leader; Says Will Seek Revenge

Two threats aiming to extort money from the leaders of the Tsing Hua students who are here on their way to the United States have been made by a certain Chinese, who claims Bolshevik allegiance.

At 4 o'clock on Wednesday, Mr. Hsiung Tsu-tung, leader of the delegation, received a telephone message at his headquarters, the Y. M. C. A., that a certain Wong wanted to see him on urgent business. As Mr. Hsiung was busily engaged, he asked Mr. Pu Shih-fung, another student, to receive the man. When he arrived, the man stated that he was a native of Nanking and had joined the Bolshevik cause on March 8. He noticed, he said, that the Tsing Hua students had been very much opposed to Bolshevism, so he had planned to seek revenge on the steamer China when they sail for the States.

On Thursday night, Wong again called and, this time, he was received by Mr. Hsiung. He stated that he had served under Chang Tso-lin of Fengtien and Sun Yat-sen of Canton, but had been unable to find any work lately. He then pulled out a $100 banknote issued by Dr. Sun Yat-sen and asked Mr. Hsiung to exchange it for him. Mr. Hsiung was obliged to give him $3 in order to send him away.

Indian Training Best Says Professor Sharp

Every Child, He Thinks, Needs Country Background For Education

Boston, June 19.—Professor Dallas Lore Sharp of Boston University believes that training children as the Indians were trained makes them alert and resourceful and fits them for the problems of life better than any other method. Professor Sharp is the man the late John Burroughs called "the greatest nature writer in America."

He has been working out an experiment in "nature education" with his four boys on his farm in the hills of Hingham. He says:

"Every child—boys and girls alike—should get a country background to fit them for the fullest kind of self-expression."

The boys are Dallas Jr., 20; Waitstill, 18, who have just completed their sophomore year at Boston University; Morrison, 16, and Huntington, 15, who will enter Boston University this Fall.

"And so we came to live here in Hingham," continued Professor Sharp. "Two of my four boys were born here, and the four of them have had experiences with everything that lives and grows on the farm and in the woods hereabouts. They have gone barefoot, trapped and fished Summer and Winter. They have traveled these hills, making acquaintance with all forms of animal life.

"That's the kind of background it seems to me—that every child has a right to, and that's what is behind our educational theory. A second reason for our coming was to give the boys an experience that would make them self-sufficient, introspective, capable of doing things on their own initiative. Nothing emphasises a boy's personality more than to find himself frequently alone and forced to depend upon his own resources.

"If I had four girls I'd put trousers on them and let them roam these woods and do the things the boys do. Most girls are being brought up in a foolish, futile way. They are pampered and prinked and ironed and starched until all their originality is gone, and they think only of their wardrobe."

ENGLAND'S ROYAL SHOPPERS

Methods Have Changed Since The Days Of Queen Victoria

New York, July 3.—Increasing democracy in the royal family of England is shown by the method of personal shopping done by Queen Mary and the Princess Mary, says an American woman just returning to this country from a long stay in Great Britain, and who, while there, caught glimpses of royalty engaged in the occupation usually enjoyed by most women.

This is a decided innovation since the days of Queen Victoria. One of the best old shops in London, not now in existence, was able to say during her lifetime that she had entered it, but it was her practice to make purchases from goods of all kinds sent to her. For the Christmas gifts, early in December Queen Victoria issued orders to the shops holding the Royal Warrant to send selections of their goods to her and one or two rooms in whatever place she chanced to be, were given up to their reception, and from them she made her choice. Some times duplicates and replicas were ordered. King Edward also selected his Christmas gifts from collections sent for his consideration, these being most frequently books in beautiful bindings. Christmas gifts of members of the royal family in the days when Victoria was young were comparatively simple. Queen Victoria in her diary tells of receiving from her mother simple articles of jewelry, pictures and, among other things, "two handkerchiefs, a pretty black satin apron trimmed with red velvet and two almanacs."

This conservative method of shopping dropped away to some extent with Queen Alexandra, who made a part of her purchases directly, and the large stores with the wide variety of goods they now carry tempt the royal women of today, as well as the women of lower station, to shop for themselves. Queen Mary is said to be a judicious shopper, examining the goods carefully and declining them if she considers the prices too high. She is sometimes accompanied by the Princess Mary, but the Princess also shops alone, accompanied only by her lady-in-waiting.

CALL LENIN "ILLITCH"

Peasants And Friends Address Him By Middle Name

Riga, Latvia, June 14.—The world knows him as Lenin and some of the more thoroughly informed know that his real name is Oulianoff, but to the peasants of his own country and to his closest companions at Moscow the head of the Russian Bolshevist Government is known as and called by the name of "Illitch."

That is his middle name, being taken, according to the Russian custom, from the name of his father, Ilor, "Illitch" meaning in Russian, "son of Ilor."

In signing governmental decrees Lenin sometimes uses both his real and assumed names thus: "V. I. Lenin (Oulianoff)." His first name is Vladimir. In the councils of his party, in conversation among leaders, etc., however, it is always "Illitch has done this," or "Illitch has done that," etc.

Crepe equal to Standard advanced about 2 cents.

Off Color Latex was well competed for.

Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes sold to an interested market, fetching prices on an average 2½ cents above last week's.

Children Cry for Fletcher's
CASTORIA
Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.
It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.
Save the Babies.
Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in civilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

MOKANSHAN IS SAWA ABODE OF BLISS AS BEFORE

Happy Folk On Hill Top Pass Vacation In Admiring Sunsets And Storms

(China Press Correspondence)

Mokanshan, Aug. 3.—The vacation season on Mokanshan is half over, and the usual good times are in full swing. Tennis and swimming are as popular as ever, and those who say that Mokanshan is the ideal summer resort for this part of China have a good deal on their side. The sunsets have been exquisite beyond words, the mists have been rare, and the ever prevalent mold has so nearly deserted us that we really can save some spare time from cleaning our shoes.

We have had two rather violent wind storms, and the masons are getting rich, but no roofs have gone off. The electrical displays at night have been wonderful and alone worth the trip up. It has been very dry, and the idol processions will soon be out in the surrounding valleys in search of rain.

There seems very little illness on the mountain, and there is plenty to eat, although prices have soared as high as elsewhere. Ice cream, which is a great treat to those who live in outports, is daily appreciated, and it is astonishing how good it tastes when the thermometer shows that we have a right to feel warm.

The friends of Mrs. Mabee of the Shanghai Baptist College and Mrs. Beaman of the American School will be sorry to hear of the accident that befell them last week. They were standing together on an upstairs porch when a beam gave way, and though they grasped the railing to save themselves, all went down together. Mrs. Mabee's arms were fractured in five places, but she is now able to sit up. Mrs. Beaman's hand was very painfully injured, but the doctors report there will be no permanent disuse. It is earnestly hoped they may soon be out again.

We had a rare privilege in having Dr. Fosdick here from July 22 to July 24, who gave four addresses, all as charming to the ear in their exquisite English, inspiring in thought, and striking illustration, as uplifting to the soul in their deep spirituality. Three of the addresses might be summed up under the head "The Tendency of Recent Times." First, to stress in one sided fashion either our beliefs or social service as the whole of religion; 2nd, to regard science as adequate to meet the needs of life and religion as neligible, and 3rd, to minimise Christ.

He made us see the eager American student tossed about in doubt longing "to get God back," but getting "the full revelation only in Him who says 'No man cometh to the Father but by Me.'"

At the liturgical service Sunday morning and at Sunday School he spoke in most happy style, both old folks and young folks crowding the church on both occasions.

CARUSO'S ESTATE SEALED; WIDOW IS PROTECTING CHILD

Personal Effects Must Go To His Legitimate Offspring Is Her Contention

(Reuter's Service)

Naples, August 4.—Cav. Enrico Caruso's body has been embalmed and is lying in a chapelle ardente, which has been visited by crowds. Hundreds of wreaths and telegrams of condolence are being received from all parts of the world.

The King has authorised the funeral service to be held in a church belonging to the Crown.

Caruso's widow has had the official seals placed on his personal effects on behalf of their legitimate daughter, Gloria.

New York, August 4.—The lawyer who drew up Caruso's will says that the bulk of his estate—the figures of which are not given—will be divided between six relatives, namely, his wife, daughter, two sons, brother and stepmother.

The lawyer says that Caruso spent his money like wildfire, and never refused to aid a distressed fellow countryman.

Caruso's income-tax in 1920 amounted to £33,000.

The exterior of the Metropolitan Opera House will be draped in mourning for Caruso for thirty days, and memorial masses will be celebrated at several churches.

UNGERN'S ARMY LOOTS URGA TILL TIRED OF PLUNDER

(Dalta News Agency)

Among the sufferers at Urga under the few hundred cossacks and the horde of savage "chahars" (cut-throats), led by Baron Ungern, were several American firms, and one British trading company.

The following particulars were given by an eyewitness of Ungern's brief regime:

The godowns and offices of Eting Goldshield, a New York concern, were ransacked, furs and hides being the chief goods in stock at the time. The manager escaped just before Ungern entered the city.

An American firm, whose name was not remembered, but which was located next door to the Chinese Government Bank was looted, and the manager—because he was a Jew—was killed. The manager's name was Rabkin.

From the godowns of Andersen Meyer were taken automobiles, gasoline, and quantities of spare parts.

The Mongolian Trading Company had in its godowns a quantity of kerosene, and candles and shoes. These goods were abandoned, the staff fleeing and the Russian employes drafted into Ungern's army.

The British firm, Biaderman and Co., was completely wiped out, its buildings sold, and the manager, although not a Jew, was killed. Ungern's working hypothesis was that if a man was a Jew he probably had dealings with the Reds. On this rough theory hundreds were put to death.

UNGERN DESCRIBED

The adventurer Ungern is described as being a tall, light complexioned man of 28 or 30 years, with a deep sword cut across his face. He is a pleasant spoken man personally, and in private conversation shows no evidence of the unspeakable crimes that are committed by his men. In dress he is slovenly to the extreme, while his followers strut about in uniforms of silk.

The source of his power is disclosed in the fact that his wife is the daughter of the Chinese General Yong Ka-yu, Governor of the Hailar district in Manchuria.

This official supported him, and furnished him with supplies from the stores of the Chinese Eastern Railway. Every day couriers would pass between the Yamen of General Yong Ka-yu and Ungern's camps.

Before undertaking his Urga affair the news was circulated in Peking and Tientsin that Ungern had divorced his Chinese wife, but this was nothing more than a diplomatic divorce, for the sake of appearances.

In Shanghai, at the height of Ungern's success was a woman, a Russian, who announced herself as the real Baroness Ungern. It would be interesting to know if she now takes pride in this relationship. During the Czar's regime Baron Ungern was arrested as a German spy, but escaped from prison during the revolution.

To such men Pinkettes are a blessing, for these gentle little laxatives dispel constipation, regulate the liver, stimulate the appetite and keep the system cool and clean.

Pinkettes are obtainable from druggists everywhere, or post free at 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

EXPLAINS WHY YOURIN VISITS PEKING OFFICALS

Mr. Boris Torgasheff, Commercial Attache of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic, has arrived in Shanghai from Peking for the settlement of commercial questions. Asked about the purpose of the trip of Mr. Ignatius Yourin, Foreign Minister of the Far Eastern Republic, from Chita to Peking, Mr. Torgasheff made the following statement:

"There are three questions to discuss with the Chinese Government: the Mongolian question, the Chinese Eastern Railway question, and several matters in connection with the negotiations for a commercial treaty," he said.

"The seizure of Urga from the Chinese garrison by the armed bands of Baron Ungern brought incalculable losses upon both Chinese and Russians in Urga. The losses of the Russian Co-operative Society, 'Centrosoyus,' alone amount to many millions of dollars.

"In the last months Ungern's activities in Mongolia created disturbances in the frontier districts of the Republic, which was obliged to send troops to disperse Ungern's bands. Immediately this is completed Russian troops will be withdrawn."

Mr. Torgasheff is optimistic about the settlement of this question. Having received from the Far Eastern Republic Mission in Peking the draft of the treaty, the Chinese Government presented lately its own counter-draft. Principles of equality and reciprocity are at the base of both drafts, and any differences are easy to settle. During his stay in Peking Mr. Yourin had several talks on both drafts of the treaty, and has instructed the Mission in Peking to commence detailed negotiations on the different clauses proposed by both parties.

WATER POLO INTER-CLUB GAMES OPEN

Rowing Club Beats S.I.S.C. By 9-1 Score

WIN WAS EASY

Siemssen And Remedios Win Preliminary Heat Dashes

Last night the first of the inter-club water polo matches in the Shanghai Water Polo League for this season took place at the Municipal baths between the Rowing Club and the International Swimming Club. The former were without the services of Wallin and I. D. Macdonald, while the Internationals were still weaker, in comparison with normal, through the absence of Mears, C. Encarnacao and their goalkeeper Ozorio.

The teams that took the water were:

Rowing Club	S. I. S. C.
T. W. R. Wilson g.	L. Leitao
R. W. MacCabe and J. Krygsman	A. L. Remedios and K. Raeburn
R. A. Berthet	h.b. F.W. Golding
J. B. Brown	F. Reid
E. A. Brodie	f. F. A. Remedios
L. Goldman	L. Encarnacao

Mr. J. H. McGregor refereed in the absence of the neutral (Police) umpire, Mr. W. Jones, and his decisions throughout were satisfactory to both sides.

The Rowing Club were easily the better conditioned team of the two, and had matters all their own way in the first half when they set up a score of 5 goals, the S. I. S. C. being unable to make any impression on Wilson.

The sides crossed over with the score reading:

Rowing Club	5 goals
S. I. S. C.	nil

In the second period the S.I.S.C. were defending the shallow end of the bath, and either because of this or in spite of it or just without any reference at all to it, they played up much better than in the opening moiety and play was more evenly divided. Three more goals were scored by the Rowing Club, however, before the first (and only) point was notched (by Encarnacao) for the S.I.S.C. Prior to the whistle going for full time, one more goal was scored by the visitors, the final score thus reading:

Rowing Club	9 goals
S.I.S.C.	1 goal

For the winners, all their forwards played up well, Brodie scoring three times and Goldman and Brown twice each. Berthet, at half-back found leisure to score also, two points being registered to his credit. The S.I.S.C. forwards were too well marked throughout the game to do much damage.

It was a nice clean game, and it is safe to predict that instead of being at all disheartened by the heavy score put up against them the S.I.S.C. will make an effort to make a better showing in their next league match against the oarsmen. With their first-choice goalkeeper between the posts, and the assistance of Mears, who is a tower of strength by himself, and of C. Encarnacao, they may be relied upon to make a better bid for the honors.

Before the water polo game, the S.I.S.C. held the preliminary heats of the first two events in their 1921 series, the results being as follow:

ONE LENGTH HANDICAP
Heat 1 E. Siemssen 1
C. Roche 2
Time: 19 secs.
Heat 2 F. W. Witschi 1
J. Castro 2
Time: 20 secs.

TWO LENGTHS HANDICAP
Heat 1 A. Remedios 1
J. K. Tordy 2
Time: 47 secs.
Heat 2 K. Raeburn 1
C. Roche 2
Time: 44 secs.

The next games in the league series are:
Aug. 10 S. R. C. v. Police
11 Police v. S.I.S.C.
17 S.R.C. v. S.I.S.C.
23 S.I.S.C. v. Police
Sept. 1 Police v. S.R.C.
(The first-named in each case is to be the home team).

BOWLS FINALS DRAWING NEAR; GOOD PROSPECTS

Approach Of Championships Indicates Some Close Contests

MATCHES ON TODAY

Competitions At Wayside And At S. L. B. C. Grounds

BY "THE SHOT"

The open championships are drawing to a close, and a week hence should see the venue and date for the rinks final decided upon. In each of the events, it looks as though the final will be fought out by players of reputed skill, and they will be certainly well worth witnessing.

In the rinks, should C. M. Bain manage to put it over C. Richards on Sunday next they will have to meet that strong four skipped by Bob Aitkenhead.

Regarding the singles Joe Buckley carried on his winning streak by defeating Charlie Richards on the club's ground after an excellent game, while the holder, Geordie Dunlop, advanced one more stage by putting out Alex Braid, who was the hope of the Juniors. In this game, it was touch and go as at 20 ends the score was 14-13 in favor of Braid. At the 21st end Braid put his first jack high and a foot away. Geordie played through and Braid's next looked to me a perfect guard for his first the same distance away, and the end looked surely like Alex's. Geordie, however, with his next passed through the two lying, and lay about 6 inches behind the jack while his third just missed the guard and lay another. These two shots seemed to upset Alex who started to play short and so lost the game.

PAIRS WELL CONTESTED

The pairs match between Burnside and Stormes vs. Shaw and Phillips proved to be a well contested game, in which all four players at various stages of the game played excellent bowls. John's steadiness at a critical part of the game when his partner had struck a bad patch was the deciding factor.

In the first half of the game, Jack Shaw gave another scintillating display saving time and again. Honors were about even between Phil and Stormes.

The following pairs will play in the semi-finals: Dunlop and Simmons from the club, Burnside and Stormes from the Juniors, while from the Waysides' stable Aitkenhead and Macgregor and Malcolm and Bissett will do battle. As will be seen, all the above names are familiar in the first rank of the Shanghai bowling world, no less than six being interporters. There is one thing I would like to say, and that is the fact that the Ways'de park rinks are not fitted to stage a semi-final or final game at present, and should not be selected as such by the association officials. I say this, knowing that the Waysiders themselves are of the same opinion.

COMPETITIONS TODAY

All lawn bowlers are invited down to Wayside Park today when an open competition, knock-out, 7 ends and 2 woods each, will take place for prizes presented by two popular members. It is little events like these which promote that harmonious spirit in the ranks of our local trundlers and all who are able to do so should pay a visit to Sandy Malcolm and his henchmen this afternoon.

An interesting event comes off at the S.L.B.C. this afternoon when the club rink final will be played. As they have already played once and finished all square it should be a most interesting game.

On Sunday the Juniors will play the club a four rink game and the season's honors are at present even, each having won a game. The Juniors team looks quite strong on paper and I've no doubt it will be a well contested fight.

The following is the team selected to do duty for the Juniors:—

A. Braid skip	D. McAlister skip
G. B. Stormes	P. B. Critchley
J. Marshgreen	J. O. Barnes
A. Raitt	E. Smith
J. Burnside skip	J. Ross Young skip
S. Chilvers	T. Spring
C. Larsen	F. Bridger
W. Featherstonhaugh	A. W. Walker

Reserves: Messrs. Davies, Berry and Carter.

The Captains Cup competition of the S. L. B. C. will be played this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Club greens in rink competition under special conditions. The rink winning the largest number of shots wins the prizes. Players are requested to be on the greens by 3:45 p.m.

Maloney Out On Crutches Hopes To Play In Big Series

The Shanghai Baseball Club will meet the nine from the Gunboat Wilmington at the Race Course diamond this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the newly formed Socony Club, which represents the Standard Oil Co. in the Hong League, tomorrow, in the last games before the big series with the Ninth Cavalry team which is scheduled to start on Tuesday.

The Cavalry team is now in Peking playing a series with the Legation Marines. They are scheduled to leave Tientsin Monday and to arrive here Tuesday in time for the opening game.

Shanghai perhaps with one exception will be in perfect playing condition for the Cavalrymen when they arrive. The possible exception is Mal Maloney the heavy hitting third sacker who sprained his ankle a week ago when in sliding into second base, his spikes caught in the sod and turned him over for a severe injury.

Maloney was out at the park yesterday for the first time since receiving his injury. He came on crutches. Yet he believes that he will be well enough to play against the Ninth, if not in the opening game, then very soon afterwards. His ankle has a bad look, but Mal says it is about 400 percent better than when the doctor began to work on it, and he figures the remaining 600 percent of needed improvement will be made before Tuesday. Here's hopin'—

Ninth Cavalry Defeats Marines By Score Of 5-2

Peking, Aug. 3.—On the Polo Ground, yesterday afternoon, the first game in the Baseball tournament was played between the Ninth United States Cavalry and the U. S. Marine Corps. The home team led by two to one up to the end of the 7th inning. In the 8th inning, the visitors scored one run and made the scores level. In the first half of the 9th inning a home run and two singles brought the Cavalry score to 5-2. The Marines failed to score again and had to acknowledge defeat after an interesting exhibition of snappy baseball. The score by innings follows:

Carpentier's Own Story Of His Game Fight For Title

Manhasset, July 3.—Carpentier, through his comrades, told his story of the fight this afternoon while resting on the front porch. He had been instructed by Wilson and Descamps to be wary and let Dempsey force the battle, but just before the opening bell, he said to them:

"The American people have been told that I was a game and courageous fighter. I must fight. Watch me."

When he came to his corner after the first round he told them that every one of Dempsey's blows had hurt.

"Then keep away from him," they say they told him.

"Never. I must fight with every ounce of power within me," he replied, as he rushed to the center of the ring.

HIS POWER BEHIND BLOWS

During the second round Carpentier said he hit Dempsey with three right hooks and three uppercuts and that all his power was behind them.

"When he didn't go down under those blows, I knew I could not defeat him," the Frenchman said. It was then a matter of going on and fighting, trusting to luck to escape his hardest punches.

"When I went at him in the third I felt the pain in my right hand and somehow I could not use it accurately or with power. I got it in several times but I could tell that it had little effect. Then Dempsey's right hand caught me on the back of the neck just at the base of the spinal column.

"My body was numb all over and I thought I was gone, but managed to last the round.

"I felt a little fresher when the bell rang for the fourth, but at the outset Dempsey got to my body and the numb feeling returned so that I did not feel the blow that floored me. I gritted my teeth and managed to arise, but the next blow, I believe it was a right to my chin, was the end.

"I kept saying to myself: 'Georges, you must get up; you must go on and fight,' but I could not.

"Dempsey fought cleanly and acted the gentleman all the time. There was not an untoward remark passed during the four rounds. It was an honor to have fought him, and, believe me, I don't think it is disgrace for any man to be defeated by him. He's a great fighter, and it is my prediction that he will be champion for many years to come."

After the knockout, Trainer Gus Wilson said, Dempsey came to the challenger's corner, shook Georges's hand, and said:

"You're a game fellow, Georges's, and we'll be friends always."

"You bet, Jack, always," the Frenchman answered.

Pierre Mallet, George's war comrade, told of an interesting incident that occurred in the dressing room immediately after the fight.

"Georges was tired," he said, "and his body ached, but he didn't whimper about that. He just looked up at me and said: 'Pierre, old fellow, you've lost your money on me—but I did the best I could.'"

Final Game Of Tourney Goes To Army In Brilliant Exhibition

In the final game of the Tientsin baseball tournament which has been under way since July 17, the 15 Infantry nine defeated the Osaka Diamond team by a score of 4-1.

The game was considered by Tientsin fans as one the best of the series. Bame, pitching for the Army, was especially effective. The defeat of the Japanese also was contributed to largely by brilliant Army outfielding, particularly by Rattan.

FLIP OF A COIN DECIDES LIGHT HORSE TOURNEY

Headquarters And Troop No. 2 Go Through Polo Games With Honors Even

TOSS FALLS TO TROOPERS

Gibbings Team Win All Games Played Without Being Scored Against

The toss of a coin on the verandah of the Shanghai Polo Club last night decided the Light Horse Inter-troop polo tournament which has been in progress on the club's polo field since Monday.

The Headquarters team captained by McMichael, and the Second Troop team captained by Gibbings, each came through the tournament with two wins to their credit. With the field engaged for club matches today, and a new schedule of play commencing Monday there was no prospect of playing off the tie. The toss resulted, and Capt. Gibbings won for his team.

The Second Troop team was composed of Gibbings, Crokam, Krieg and Liddell. It went through the tournament without defeat and without being scored against. They won on the first day's play against the Headquarters team by a score of 3-0. On Wednesday they met and defeated the First Troop, composed of Eastwood, Toeg, David and Boyd, and then won over the Third Team, Messrs. Andrews, Gordon, Rutherford and Sherbinin, later the same evening.

The Headquarters team, composed of McMichael, Robinson, Caarten and Wingrove came to the last day's play yesterday scheduled against the Third Troop. They won by a score of 4-0, and thus found themselves even up on the tournament with the second Troop. It was arranged at first that the tie be played off but after discussion it was decided that inasmuch as the field would be engaged today with club matches, and daily beginning Monday with matches under the new classification, the Light Horse Inter-troop tournament would be decided by the flip of a coin. The toss was made, Capt. Gibbing's team called it, and the honors went to the Second Troop.

Aussies Count 317 Against Lancashire For Five Wickets

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—The Australians resumed their first innings against Lancashire at Liverpool today on a drying wicket. The attendance numbered some 5,000 and the weather was dull.

Having compiled 317 for five wickets, the Australians declared. Bardsley made 124 (his eighth century during the present tour), his hits including two fives and 13 fours. Andrews contributed 88, including one six and 11 fours.

Lancashire made 31 for two wickets before stumps were drawn. Rain interfered with play after lunch.

Australia Divide Davis Cup Singles With British Isles

(Reuter's Service)

Pittsburg, August 4.—In the singles matches in the Davis Cup competition between the British Isles and Australasia, Anderson, Australasia, beat Woosnam, Great Britain, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Anderson's driving was sensational.

In the first set Woosnam showed flashes of brilliance but then deteriorated before Anderson's good and accurate driving. The Englishman led three games to love in the fourth set but was subsequently outplayed.

Gordon Lowe, Great Britain, beat Hawkes, Australasia, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

The play in this match was dull. Both men remained near the back line, and the contest became a test of ability in placing long shots. Hawkes lost the first two sets through inability to play back-hand against Lowe's rollers.

Clay Pigeon Club Shoots For Holiday Trophy Tomorrow

The regular Sunday shoot of the Shanghai Clay Pigeon Club this week will be for the Holiday Cup, with conditions allowing 40 birds from the Leggett traps, under a sealed handicap drawn up by the donor of the cup. A part of the competition will be shot under the Murray Cup conditions. The shoot commences at 4:30 Sunday.

The interport shoot for the Murray Cup which usually is held on August 12, has been postponed to September 14, in view of the deeply regretted death of Mr. Frank L. Fearon, who was one of the best shots on the Tientsin team and in former days a prominent member of the Shanghai Gun Club.

Report Big Seizure Of Smuggled Opium

A seizure by the Customs of 700 pounds of smuggled opium, brought to Shanghai from Tientsin by train, and the arrest of two foreigners alleged to have been accompanying the shipment, was reported late last night. It is stated that the drug was packed in one-pound oil tins and that a third man implicated escaped.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—The letter signed "A. W." appearing in THE CHINA PRESS of August 2, referring to the ball game of Sunday afternoon can be regarded by all right-thinking Americans as nothing but a joke.

The statement: "But in this instance the decision meant nothing, for the sailors were six runs behind and completely out-classed," shows clearly that in a like case with "A. W." as one of the contestants, he would have quit—but such is not the class of men of which the American Navy is composed.

From the entire article we gathe that "A. W." is not truly an American and had previously neve witnessed a bi league game in the States. A that though he ridicules rs as being merely 'Substitutes,' he himself has no ability that is recognised as ever entitling him to wear a ball uniform.

Probably the "rooting" of the sailors disturbed his knitting an caused him to occasionally drop stitch.

We would suggest that in the near future he attend some game of Tiddle-de-winks where such wit a his reference to coal passers would probably be appreciated and where the rude spectators would applaud each move by wildly clapping their hands and hilarously waving handkerchiefs.

Finally, if the price of admission to the ball park puts such a dent in his Mex per month wage, that he has to rush into print about it, any member of this ship's company would be glad to refund the amount merely as an act of charity.

The letter of "A. W." should be and is ridiculous to any red-blooded American, but probably serves his pet ambition to get his name in the paper.

The Shanghai Baseball Club is endeavoring to create American spirit in athletics, thereby furthering co-operation, interest and unity among Americans and, above all, Americanism in Shanghai as tvoified by the Army and Navy. We wonder if "A. W." is one of the "Hundred and fifty thousand"???? The Shanghai baseball team has again requested a game for next Saturday showing that they desire our company. We would like to hear the opinion of some American 'Rooters.' We are, The Crew of the Wilmington,

PER M. B. L.

Shanghai, August 3, 1921.

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: On behalf of this Club I desire to assure you our regrets that the letter signed A. W. appearing in the "Sporting Editor's Letter Box" of the CHINA PRESS on August 2, was ever published.

The Club feels that the remarks made in the letter referred to are absolutely uncalled for and are an unjust and biased criticism of the conduct of the sailors attending the baseball games in Shanghai and we doubt very much whether A. W. would receive the support of a single Shanghai Baseball fan.

The Club is indebted to the Navy for many of its games and in order that the Navy Fans may enjoy the games, the Club has set aside one stand known as the "Sailors Stand" for the exclusive use of the Sailors during Shanghai-Navy games.

The Shanghai Baseball Club will always heartily welcome naval men either as ball players or spectators, and we trust that the letter of A. W. as an individual speaking for himself, and not for or on behalf of the Club, will not affect our hitherto pleasant relations in connection with baseball.

As far as the Club is concerned, we consider the Wilmington's team clean, game ball players, gentlemanly and good sports and we regret exceedingly that any reflection has been cast upon them.

We would thank you to transmit this information to the crew of the Wilmington. Yours very truly,

F. W. McINTYRE.
Chairman.

Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club.
Shanghai, Aug. 5, 1921.

The letter signed A. W. which we published last Tuesday has stirred up a storm of correspondance from Shanghai fans protesting A. W.'s criticism of the baseball rooting tactics of the American sailor at the Race Course diamond. There seems to be a large mass of opinion contrary to that of A. W.

Several letters on the subject already have been published. They express the opinion, we believe of the majority of the fans.

These two final letters however are published with a view to closing the correspondence in these columns. The one is from the sailors themselves. It is good to note that they treat A. W.'s criticism's as a joke. The other is from the chairman of the Shanghai Baseball Club committee to the commanding officer of the Wilmington. It disclaims the sentiments expressed by A. W., express the committee's appreciations of the Navy boys contribution to American sport in Shanghai, and hopes for a continuation of the pleasant relations that have always existed between the Shanghai club and the Navy, and between Shanghai players and the Sailor teams.

Cotton

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton report of today:

China Cotton:—Our market during the past week showed no improvement in the direction of any demand on the part of spinners for the local staple either for spot or future deliveries nor has there been any report of transactions having taken place on new season cotton; however, prices at the native Cotton Exchanges within narrow fluctuations continued steady throughout the week under review for both near and distant deliveries. There is every likelihood that such speculative operations may infuse sufficient strength toward buoying up prices to nearly the same level even when the new season cotton is ready for the open market. Reactions may set in but when viewed from the present standpoint such may affect a depression by Tls. 1.00 to Tls. 1.50 per picul at the most, leaving room for recovery according as the demand may eventually arise on the part of the Mills and not losing sight of the prices that may rule on both Mid-Americans and Indians.

The U. S. Government condition report on July 2 is 64.7 indicating a crop estimate of only 8,200,000 bales has somewhat modified for the time being the prolonged general bearish sentiment, as may be noticed from the daily New York quotations and conditions there may still further be accentuated should the boll weevil pest make any detrimental inroads on the plant during this its favorite season for destructiveness.

However, taking into consideration the present economic conditions throughout the world bearing on the Cotton fibre one may be permitted to deduce that prices, on this one of the most important staples, will remain more or less within present limits in the near future barring unforeseen events that will naturally tend to change the situation. Tone of the market, Steady.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Fruit in Summer

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

GREAT changes have occurred in popular taste in the last decade or two, and plants and fruits that were once thought unfit for food have since come into great popular favor. Tomatoes, for example, formerly called "love apples," were considered poisonous and were raised only for the sake of the pretty appearance the ripe red fruit made when displayed as ornaments on the mantelpiece. Asparagus also was shunned as food and grown solely because of its beautiful foliage which was used to decorate the house.

Even to-day some people feel that fruit is a "luxury" and that it is an extravagance to spend for its extensive and free use on the table. It is a settled fact that in many rural communities there are still numbers of persons who never think of eating the delicious fruit growing about and on their own farms and woods. "Eat lettuce? Why, that's only grass for a cow!"

Now there is no question but what fruit is essential to a balanced diet. Fruit consists of two parts—the pithy or fibrous portion, which holds the juices, and the juices themselves, which contain the invisible but soluble mineral salts. Fruit as food has two functions—the fibrous portion acts as "bulk" to stimulate intestinal action, and the juices keep the blood pure and cool and lower and the acidity of the blood. No other food can fill these two functions so well. No matter how much meat and starchy foods and bread and even green vegetables are taken the diet is unbalanced without fruit.

All fruits have a large percentage of water, which makes them cooling and refreshing. Their distinctive flavors greatly delight the appetite. The beneficial effects of fruit are more pronounced when they are taken raw, as cooking neutralizes the strength of the various acids. A pear, for example, or a dish of berries will have more results, both in refreshing and as a laxative, if not cooked.

Grapes contain a large percentage of sugar, potash, salts, phosphoric acid, lime and iron. They are blood builders.

Apples and pears contain malic acid, phosphates, lime, albumen. They possess valuable laxative qualities.

Cherries and plums contain phosphates, sugar and nitrogen.

Blackberries, raspberries, huckleberries and strawberries contain citric acid, salts of lime and iron. Like cherries and plums they are astringent and tonic.

Oranges contain a large percentage of sugar. They are blood making and laxative.

Pineapples contain a digestive juice related to pepsin that is excellent for catarrhal troubles.

Melons contain a large percentage of water in combination with sugar and starch. They are cooling and tonic.

In what is called a "natural diet" great quantities of fruit are eaten. There are two things to observe in eating fruit: First, to have it perfectly ripe and as mature as possible, and, second, not to mix it or eat it at the same time with the wrong food.

For example, a person who eats an underripe banana, which is nothing but a mass of raw starch, will say, "Oh, I can't eat bananas." Undoubtedly if they had eaten a banana so ripe that it was soft and the outside skin black it would have agreed with them.

Similarly someone will say, "I can't eat strawberries." Very probably they attempted to eat strawberries with sugar and with milk, two of the worst foods to eat at the same time with fruit. How can anyone expect an acid fruit and milk to go well together?

I am not surprised at the amount of heartburn prevalent when I see the way people combine a very acid fruit like grapefruit with cereal and milk in their stomachs. No wonder they feel a burning—who would not? Acid fruits should never be eaten with milk nor at the same time with starches.

Each person can experiment with his own results when eating certain fruits and learn to avoid wrong combinations. An entire "fruit breakfast" is a refreshing plan in hot weather. In biliousness and when the appetite and stomach seem clogged eat nothing but fruit for an entire day and see how much better you feel.

The more sedentary the occupation the more necessary fruits become! Old persons need quantities of the sub-acid fruits to counteract hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure. Children can use all fruits if they are ripe, strained or the coarse, seedy portions removed. Spend more money on fruit and less on meat.

Tested Cabbage Recipes

By Mary Lee Swann,
The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

White and Blue Cabbage Salad.

FINELY shred equal parts of blue and white cabbage. Soak in ice water ½ hour and then drain well. Mix with favorite salad dressing.

Cabbage and Green Pepper Salad.

MIX 2 parts finely shredded cabbage and 1 part finely chopped green pepper and moisten with salad dressing.

Dressing for Cold Slaw.

BEAT 3 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon mustard, a dash of pepper and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add ⅓ cup vinegar and 2 tablespoons butter and cook over hot water until the mixture coats the spoon. Stir constantly while cooking. Chill before using.

Hot Slaw.

MIX 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add 1 teaspoon salt, a dash each of pepper and mustard and 1 slightly beaten egg. Add a scant cup of milk and stir over hot water until thick. Add ⅓ cup mild vinegar and continue stirring a minute longer. Add 3 cups chopped cooked cabbage and reheat.

Pepper and Cabbage Relish.

REMOVE the stems and seeds from 5 large green peppers and 1 red pepper. Remove the outside leaves and hard centre from a cabbage and cut in pieces. Chop the cabbage and peppers, add 2 tablespoons of white mustard seed, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons brown sugar and cold vinegar to cover. Store in sterilized jars.

Cabbage au Gratin.

COOK cabbage in boiling salted water until tender, about ½ hour. Drain, chop and measure 3 cups. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Add 1½ cups milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add cabbage and 1 hard-cooked egg which has been pressed through a potato ricer. Pour into a well-buttered baking dish and sprinkle with ½ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Creamed Cabbage.

PICK over and wash cabbage carefully. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add ¾ cup white sauce to each cup of shredded cabbage. Reheat, sprinkle with paprika and serve.

Smothered Cabbage.

PICK over and wash half a cabbage and pass through a meat chopper. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and blend well. Add ⅔ cup milk gradually, while stirring constantly. Bring to boiling point and add 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper and the finely chopped cabbage. Mix well, cover, place on slow fire and cook gently about 1 hour.

Swedish Cabbage Soup.

MELT 2 tablespoons drippings. Add 2 cups finely chopped cabbage, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 tablespoon minced carrot, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, a bit of bay leaf and a dash of pepper, and cook 5 minutes. Add 1 quart veal stock and a few small pieces of veal. Cover and cook slowly about ½ hour. Add salt to taste. A bit of mace will improve the flavor of the soup.

Cabbage Rolls, Syrian Style.

MIX 2 cups chopped cooked meat, 1 egg, ½ cup bread crumbs (soaked in ¼ cup water or milk), salt and pepper to taste and other seasonings as desired. Pick over and wash large cabbage leaves. Scald with boiling water and place a tablespoon of the meat mixture in each leaf. Roll up, skewer in place, sprinkle with salt, and place smooth side up on a rack in a kettle and steam about ½ hour. Serve with Syrian sauce.

Rumanian Gevech.

PARBOIL 1¼ cups shredded cabbage for 20 minutes with ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup rice, ¾ cup diced potato and ½ green pepper cut into fine strips. Salt to taste. Drain and add ¾ pound fish (cut into small pieces), ¾ cup canned tomatoes, 3 tablespoons water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and a dash of black pepper. Bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes, basting from time to time. Garnish with thinly sliced lemon.

Ways of Testing Cloth

TO test silk boil it in a 5 per cent solution of caustic potash for fifteen minutes, says Mary Jane Rhoe, author of "The Dress You Wear and How to Make It."

If the silk is pure the fabric will be practically destroyed, leaving but a small residue like paper ashes. If there is cotton in it the cotton will remain.

Another excellent test is to remove the threads which form the warp and the woof. Keep these separate and test them in strong hydrochloric or sulphuric acid.

If they are pure silk the threads will dissolve within two minutes. If there is either wool or cotton in the fabric the threads will remain unaffected.

Pure woolens are adulterated even more than silk, because they are in greater demand, and also because they are quite easy to imitate.

Many a yard of cloth sold as "pure wool" contains from 30 to 60 per cent cotton. Blankets sold as "half wool" have frequently been found to contain only 10 per cent of pure wool.

There are machines to-day which cleverly wrap wool around cotton thread, and the finished product has every appearing of being "all wool."

Another test is to moisten a sample with 50 per cent nitric acid. This will turn the wool yellow, but the cotton will retain its color.

Use the same tests for linens as you do for woolens. If the sample is genuine linen it will not be affected by oil of vitrol, but any cotton that is in it will be destroyed.

Imitation damask is made to-day by means of printing the design upon the surface with a sort of transparent mucilage. By immersing a sample in hot boiling water and allowing it to boil several minutes the design will disappear.

Household Helps

Soaking Vegetables.

IF vegetables have to stand after paring cover them completely with cold water to prevent wilting and discoloration.

Old Shoe Strings.

WHEN the edges of shoe laces begin to fray trim them off, lap the trimmed ends about an inch and sew them firmly together with thread of the same color.

Peeling Tomatoes.

PRICK some holes in the bottom of the tomatoes with a fork and hold them over the fire for an instant. This will crack the skin and make them easier to peel.

Have Women's Fashions Passed the Limit of Decency?

Answered in Various Ways by Men and Women Whose Opinions Are Worth Having.

IF the word "modiste" ever did have any relation to the word "modesty" it hasn't any more.—MRS. ELLEN F. O'GRADY, former deputy police commissioner of New York.

YES! Half hose, skirts so narrow that they have to be slashed to permit walking, transparent skirts and blouses, waists that are cut too low and skirts that are cut too high, can never build the right sort of social standards.—DR. JEANETTE WROCKMORTON, of the Iowa State Board of Health.

THE decollete gowns seen in Paris theatres nowadays are outrages on good taste, but the wearer, rather than the dressmakers, must be blamed. You will always find some women who will adopt indelicate emphasis of the prevailing fashion and render themselves conspicuous by their mode of wearing their dresses.—MADAME PAQUIN, Paris fashion expert.

MODESTY does not lie in the length of a skirt or the exhibition of an inch more or less of a feminine leg. Modesty and good manners are innate. This outcry against the women, young and old, of our generation as exploiters of immodest dress is unfair and preposterous.—MRS. JAMES LEES LAIDLAW, prominent New York clubwoman.

ALL this talk of the immodesty of women's fashions is absurd. Immodesty is only a thought in the mind of the beholder. The whole point of fashions from the beginning was to make men "take notice." In my opinion they aren't taking any more notice now than they ever did. I think present fashions the most beautiful since the days of ancient Greece.—SALLY JAMES FARNUM, famous sculptor.

I HAVE been shocked by the lack of clothes worn by women at receptions I have attended in New York. Raised in the peace, security and modesty of country life, I could not but be displeased with the costumes of women whose dresses were cut so low in the back that one could count every vertebra from the waist up. Let the pure women of America dictate our styles.—LIEUTENANT B. W. MAYNARD, the "flying parson."

I SEE nothing to be alarmed about in women's attire. All nature is beautiful, be it a beautiful woman or a well modelled statue.—REV. JOHN F. VON HERRLICH, New York Episcopalian clergyman.

EMPHATICALLY I do consider the present modes in women's clothing improper and immodest. Skirts are too short and too narrow. The slit skirt is vulgar. Fabrics such as chiffon, georgette crepe and net should never be worn without a proper lining. The modern evening gown is cut too low both in front and in back.—LAURA M. RIEGELMAN, chief of Brooklyn Bureau of Child Hygiene.

IN days gone by ladies dressed for dinner; now they undress for it. Women, in their mad craze for "emotional gowns" sin against every canon of good taste. Such dresses are immodest, unhealthy and as ugly as they are expensive. Girls who follow the up-to-date fashions are ruining their own and their neighbors' souls as well as their own bodies.—REV. BERNARD VAUGHAN, the well-known Jesuit father.

I HAVE read with considerable amusement the suggestions of some serious minded ladies that women's dress should be reformed. There is, in my opinion, no necessity for reform. I never saw American girls so charmingly dressed as they are to-day. If a woman has a pretty ankle or a pretty back she ought to show it.—GERALDINE FARRAR, the grand opera prima donna.

THE present day fashions for women as exhibited on the street and in public places are conspicuous for vulgarity and shocking in the extreme.—KATHERINE EVANS VON KLENNER, president, National Opera Club of America.

Ice-Box Hints

NEVER put warm food or warm dishes into the ice box.

IT is economy in the long run to keep the ice compartment well filled.

AVOID keeping foods in the compartment with the ice, as the melting of the ice is increased every time the door is opened.

KEEP the drain pipe of the ice box clean by flushing with hot water and cleaning with a long-handled brush.

WASH out the ice box frequently with hot water, using two tablespoons of washing soda to each gallon of water; rinse and dry thoroughly.

DO not cover the ice with ice blankets, newspapers or cloth. While they prevent the ice melting they also make the ice chest less cool.

SELECT fairly thin dishes for use in the ice box, for thick dishes take up and hold heat. Dishes of enamelware or glass are better than those of heavy earthenware.

THE fashions of to-day are immodest and suggestive. They can't help affecting the minds of men. If our men turn bad it is our fault.—MRS. JAMES G. WENTZ, President, New York Women's Republican Club.

THE present style of dress is disgusting and dangerous both to women and to everyone else. It destroys modesty, woman's God-given safeguard.—REV. CHRISTIAN F. REISNER, prominent Methodist clergyman.

THE word of countless men of every kind and variety is to the effect that the clothes which women wear, or do not wear, make clean living a thousand times harder than it used to be.—DR. FLORENCE L. MEREDITH, the expert in girl health.

INDECENCY is a state of mind. The only costumes I would call indecent are the ugly ones. And it is seldom that the American woman is ugly. She is the prettiest woman in the world, and the best dressed.—MARJORIE RAMBEAU, well-known actress.

THERE is never any question of impropriety in the clothing worn by a lady. The taste of a real lady cannot be vulgarized. There is no reason why a woman should not display her ankles as well as her wrists. It is a question of how she does it.—HENRI BENDEL, famous creator of fashions.

THE most damning thing about fashions is that they make inevitably, nine years out of ten, for the greatest ugliness of the greatest number.—KATHERINE FULLER GEROULD, well known essayist and novelist.

THE greatest evil in modern styles is the fact that the present tendency toward undress is obviously for the purpose of directing attention to the sex idea. This idea is tremendously overemphasized in our modern life.—REV. DR. JOHN ROACH STRATON, of Calvary Baptist Church, New York.

THE prudes who declare that a woman has to burden herself with heavy, unbecoming clothing in order to conform to the laws of decency are generally those whose bodies are more sightly covered than uncovered. Let us face the fact that the heaviest clothed in every climate are neither the most moral nor the most healthy.—DR. JOSIAH OLDFIELD, eminent English physician.

THE fashions of to-day are no more indecent than those of any other age. Why should we bother about them when modesty is, after all, only a matter of tradition? Among one people it is immodest to display one part of the body, among another people another part. What is proper to-day will be improper to-morrow.—FRANZ BOAS, professor of anthropology, Columbia University.

I CANNOT but arrive at the conclusion that to-day's fashions are designed and cut not to drape the human figure and keep it warm, beautiful and comfortable, but, on the contrary, it would seem that to-day's so-called costumes are created with the set purpose of awakening in man unholy desires and, perhaps, of fanning into fever flame those already kindled. How such conduct can be defended it is impossible for me as a Christian man to conjecture. Personally, I feel quite sure that studied immodesty on the part of girls defeats its own ends. A decent man who intends to marry a girl and make her the queen of his heart and the mistress of his home is not going to choose for his partner "till death do them part" a girl who has so little respect she does not even know how to clothe herself in decency.—FATHER BERNARD VAUGHAN, distinguished English clergyman.

Try Rolls Before Breakfast

SIX rolls before breakfast and six more before you go to bed—these are the novel remedy prescribed by Dr. William Brady for headache, indigestion, poor circulation, sallow complexion, mental depression and other troubles for which drugs often fail to give permanent relief.

By rolls, the doctor does not mean the kind that come from your cook's oven, but the old-fashioned somersaults which you probably used to turn when you were a child. These is, he believes, great benefit to be found in this form of exercise if taken regularly.

"A somersault," says Dr. Brady in a recent issue of the New York Medical Journal, "is a simple, harmless thing. It is entirely within the capacity of anyone between six and sixty years of age who is not bedridden. There are no contraindications to somersaults as a mechanical remedy."

Among the chief benefits to be derived from turning somersaults are a better distribution of the blood and a consequent increase in the activity of the intestines.

People not accustomed to somersaults will often feel dizzy, see stars or be nauseated after the first few attempts. This only goes to show how unevenly the blood has been distributed and how badly just such treatment has been needed. If the patients persevere, however, they can overcome all these obstacles with reasonable practise.

The beginner in somersaulting should line the floor with pillows, soft quilt or a mattress. But once the knack has been acquired no padding of any kind will be necessary. A long hallway makes an ideal place for turning the required six somersaults; if a smaller room is used the patient will, of course, have to roll back and forth on the floor.

Jute Fabrics

Mr. J. A. Fredericks writes as follows in the jute fabrics circular dated August 3:

As yet there is no improvement to report in the gunny market where absence of business continues to be the only noticeable thing. Though prices have improved in Calcutta this rise has been practically neutralised by the corresponding rise in exchange. Prices continue to be nominal.

Drove Clerk To Die By Own Hand; Now Is Given Freedom

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 5.—A Mandate has been issued, pardoning Dr. Hsia Tien-pao, formerly Consul-General for North Borneo, who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment on a charge of causing the suicide of a consular clerk in 1918, but the sentence was reduced on appeal to 18 months.

The circumstances created a wave of sympathy with Dr. Hsia. The proceedings have been almost interminable, and recently Mr. Lu Cheng-hsiang, Mr. Sun Pao-chi, Admiral Li Ting-sing, Admiral Liu Kung-hsun, and other prominent persons petitioned the President for a special pardon.

Yangtze River—North Channel Entrance.

Tsungming Crossing—Former report of sudden shoaling incorrect.

Referring to Special Notice to Mariners No. 598, NOTICE is hereby given that a recent examination of the Tsungming Crossing proves the former report of a sudden shoaling, with a depth of water of only 10 feet between the West Spit Buoy and the Crossing Buoy, to have been incorrect. The depth of water on the Tsungming Crossing now averages 3 feet less that shown on the Marine Department Chart No. 2.—Woosung to Plover Point, re-issued in March 1921, the least depth of water found between the West Spit Buoy and the Crossing Buoy being 15 feet at Low Water of Extraordinary Spring Tides.

CAUTION.

As the Tsungming Crossing shows signs of probable further deterioration in the near future, great caution should be exercised by navigators using this channel.

WEATHER

The increasing pressures of the Bonin appear to force the typhoon to incline more and more to W-N-W, threatening the Ballintang Channel and the China Sea, to the South of the Formosa Strait. Variable breezes to the South of the Saddles. Monsoon in the North. Hot weather; local thunderstorms.

Mr. Matsushima's Mission

ONE of the things for which the War was supposed to have been fought was the right of self-determination. Small nations were to be free to conduct their own affairs as they thought fit, it being understood of course that they were not so to conduct them as to be a nuisance to their neighbors. President Wilson put the matter quite concisely when he declared that amongst the ends for which the Allied and Associated Powers were fighting was:

"The settlement of every question, whether of territory, of sovereignty, of economic arrangement or of political relationship, upon the basis of the free acceptance of that settlement by the people immediately concerned and not upon the basis of the material interest or advantage of any other people or nation which may desire a different settlement for the sake of its own exterior influence or mastery."

This is hardly an ambiguous statement of the Allied aims in the Great War; and either explicitly or implicitly, all the Allied Powers consented to it. At least, they indulged in that silence which gives consent. Even Japan let the statement pass without protest, in spite of the fact that only three years before this declaration of war aims was made Japan had unwarrantably interfered, for the sake of her own "exterior influence and mastery" in the affairs of China. The events of three years earlier, however, Japan presumably regarded as faits accomplis, and therefore not coming within the scope of the War aims of the Allied and Associated Powers. Still, having adopted the War aims of the Allies, and made many and great professions of complete solidarity with her Allies on all the principal issues, Japan ought to be consistent. Yet consistency can hardly be described as her besetting virtue, for within the past two or three days has come to hand the following message from Reuter's Tokio correspondent:

The Jiji and the Kokumin are giving prominence to the mission of Mr. Matsushima, Consul-General at Vladivostok, to Siberia. It is reported that he will recommend a compromise between the Vladivostok and Chita Governments, and negotiate with Chita for the evacuation of the Japanese troops. It is believed that General Takayanagi's departure for Siberia is connected with this matter. Pending negotiations the papers believe an exchange of divisions is likely to be postponed. If the agreement is reached with Chita, it is thought, it will be unnecessary to dispatch the Eighth Division.

It will be remembered that a few days ago Mr. Matsushima declared that the Chita Government was the "democratic and only" government in Siberia. That being so, it is incredible that Mr. Matsushima should now be proposing a compromise between the "only" government and something which, on Mr. Matsushima's own showing, is not a government at all. If the Chita Government is the "only" Government in Siberia, then the thing that calls itself a government at Vladivostok is nothing more than a travesty of a government, and under the circumstances is a usurper. Surely Mr. Matsushima does not propose a compromise between a Government and a usurpation! Unfortunately, in the past the Japanese Government has done things that would warrant one in believing that it would make no bones about supporting usurpers and rebels; the whole history of Japan's relations with China since the day Japan recognised the Republic of China would bear out this contention.

The affairs of the Far Eastern Republic are affairs in the settlement of which Japan has no right whatever to interfere, on Japan's admitted principles as an Allied Power. Between the Chita Government recognised by Mr. Matsushima as the "only" Government of the Far Eastern Republic, and the Vladivostok cabal of mutineers there can be neither negotiation nor what Mr. Matsushima is pleased to call compromise. But that is not all. What is the Vladivostok "Government?" It is the puppet creation of the Japanese Military Command. It has not the adhesion of one in a thousand of the inhabitants of the Maritime Province. It does not enjoy, simply because it has no claim to the loyalty of anybody in the Maritime Province that is not in its own pay. It represents Japanese militarism and Russian reaction.

The Russian reactionaries, though they do not know it, are merely the tools of Japan. Thus the Vladivostok "Government" is simply an allotropic form of the Government of Japan. Any negotiation therefore between the Chita Government and the Vladivostok "Government" would be to all intents and purposes negotiation between Chita and Tokio, and in the matter to which Mr. Matsushima refers such negotiations would practically amount to Chita's getting Tokio's consent to a modification of the Constitution of the Far Eastern Republic, a modification, too, in a direction in which the people of the Far Eastern Republic do not desire a modification. There is no reason whatever why Chita should seek the consent of Tokio on any single item of her domestic affairs. The Far Eastern Republic is as much a sovereign state as is Japan, and has a perfect right to frame its own constitution to live its own life, and to develop its own genius as any sovereign state on the face of the earth. "Negotiations" or a "Compromise" between Chita and Vladivostok are inadmissible, for were they admitted the principle of Japan's right to interfere in the internal affairs of the Republic would ipso facto also be admitted; and such an admission Chita never will, because it never can, make.

Not only can Chita never consent to negotiate with the Russo-Japan usurper-puppets that the Japanese Military Command has brought into being, that calls itself the Vladivostok Government, and that the people call Merkuloff Brothers; but Chita can never consent to negotiate with the Japanese Government on the subject of the evacuation of the Japanese troops from the Far Eastern Republic. Those troops were sent to Siberia without the consent of the Siberian people, they have remained there in spite of the protests of the Far Eastern Republic, they have long ago served the purpose for which they were sent, there is no justification for their presence and there is nothing to call for negotiation in their departure.

Japan has a most unholy habit of wanting to "negotiate" even the most simple things. She wants to "negotiate" the withdrawal of troops from Shantung. She wants to "negotiate" the withdrawal of troops from Siberia. To "negotiate" means to do business; and that is exactly what Japan wants. She wants in both cases to get a quid pro quo.

She knows that it pays to be honest, and so she wants China (in the Shantung issue) and the Far Eastern Republic (in the present matter) to pay highly for Japan's honesty. In both cases all that Japan need do is to notify the Government concerned that her troops are going, and ample arrangements will be made for the preservation of peace and order after they have gone; in fact, in both cases, the departure of the Japanese troops would be an important factor in restoring real, and not simulated, peace and order.

If Mr. Matsushima is going to Chita in the expectation that the Chita Government will buy the evacuation of the Japanese troops by means of modifications in the Constitution of the Far Eastern Republic, by economic concessions, or in any other way, he is almost certainly doomed to disappointment. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic is prepared to grant economic concessions, and to adopt almost any device to secure foreign co-operation in the economic and industrial development of the Republic, but it is not going to buy from Japan or anywhere else the elementary rights and fundamental liberties of sovereignty.

The New Tannenbaum

"Conscription For Education"

BY GEORGE PALMER PUTNAM

At the age of twenty he landed in America. He spoke not a word of English. The sum total of his common school education was eight months, and all of that came during his first year in America.

At the mature age of thirteen he came to New York alone, with a capital of 80 cents. His first job was in a restaurant, at $3 a week, while his Bowery lodging cost him 25 cents a night.

On his twenty-first birthday he was arrested for leading jobless, hungry men into churches, and sent to Blackwell's Island for a year. He emerged from prison still quite uneducated.

He is now twenty-seven. He has put himself through Columbia University with highest honors, a Phi Beta Kappa key, and a $2,000 fellowship for research work. His scholarly articles appear in The Atlantic Monthly. His book, the first in its field, entitled "The Labor Movement," has just been published here and in England.

Frank Tannenbaum, the young immigrant who has crowded all this into his short life, has a slogan all his own and, be it added one seldom voiced—"I believe in conscription for education." He is a disciple of his own belief, a spectacularly successful voluntary conscript.

"Work—everlasting plugging"—was Tannenbaum's reply when asked how he had contrived such scholastic accomplishments in so short a space. Not a unique recipe, but somehow perennially efficient! For six years, now, he has got up each morning at 5 o'clock—to study!

"What started you for that?" I indicated his Phi Beta Kappa key, worn only, you remember, by those who win highest scholastic honors. Tannenbaum smiled and said:

"The twelve-year-old lad who picked his very first knowledge of English out of Henty's 'Rocky Mountains' had no such ambitions! The most I wanted was a chance at high school. That's why I ran away to New York—and never found the chance! In those days it was only a sort of inarticulate hunger, a longing for books. Then"—his voice lowered seriously—"the absolute necessity of being educated was pounded into me."

"How?"

"Because I resented the ridicule of the papers. They said I was only an ignorant boy. In effect they said, 'If he only had an education, he would understand—and act rationally.' Then and there I determined no one ever again could call me ignorant of the education of books, no matter what the cost. . . . The day I left Blackwell's Island I started toward Columbia."

Among other results, the Blackwell's Island experience made of the young prisoner a thoroughly practical prison reformer. His disclosures after the expiration of the sentence resulted in a complete reorganisation of the Island," and subsequently his articles on prison administration have attracted national attention. Last Summer under the auspices of the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor he toured the United States in a Ford, visiting seventy penitentiaries.

As a result of a strike of prisoners which Tannenbaum engineered at Blackwell's Island, he himself spent eighteen days in the "cooler" on bread and water, and two months in solitary confinement. After the strike all hands were locked up. Tannenbaum from behind prison doors made a speech to the 1,800 men in cells all about and below him. It was a speech to an invisible audience. He could see no one and was unseen himself. He said that while he talked there was not a sound in the building. But when the guards came and hauled him before the Warden, pandemonium broke loose among the prisoners.

"What are you doing?" asked the Warden.

"Nothing that I shouldn't do."

"Why were you making a speech to the prisoners?"

"Because they are right and you are wrong."

Thereafter he went into the "cooler."

Subsequently Professor E. Stagg Whitin of Columbia came to know him while he was in solitary confinement.

"How much education have you?"

"I don't know."

"Do you care to go to college?"

"Yes," was the answer.

And in the Fall of 1916 he entered Columbia. He finished in June, 1920. He missed his degree because he flunked one course in mathematics.

"I failed in that because I was writing my book. You can't mix books and mathematics. To tell the truth, I didn't even go to class for quite a while."

"What was the most valuable thing that college gave you?" I asked.

"Unquestionably personal contact with my teachers. My actual studying commenced early in the morning and was done before recitation time. My classes were mostly through by noon. The afternoons and evenings I had for talk—social contact. For me that was college's biggest asset."

Just at present Tannenbaum, in connection with his fellowship at the New School of Social Research, is making an intensive survey of the labor movement on the American railroads. This completed, and a book on American prison methods and opportunities out of the way, the man with the Phi Beta Kappa key and the I. W. W. past, intends to return to work in the railroad shops.

APPROPRIATE HYMNS

Following the few paragraphs on appropriate texts, which appeared in this column yesterday, a correspondent sends me the following spasms on appropriate hymns:

The Sheffield clergyman who opened a marriage service with the hymn:

"Deluded souls who dream of heaven,
And seek to find it here below," was beaten in his choice by the bride-to-be who, when asked to choose a hymn suggested "Oft in danger, oft in woe!" Another girl, altgough determined to take her chance, chose the hymn:

"I know not what awaits me,
God kindly veils my eyes."

Schoolboys furnish several examples of appropriate hymns, but possibly they had a knowing finger in their selection. Never was a last line sung with more enthusiasm than at a service held after a certain class list had been read out, in which a boy named Jordan had, after many futile attempts, managed to appear. Every eye was turned to that youth when the lines were reached:

"Sorrow vanquished, labor ended,
Jordan passed!"

Then there was the occasion when a touring team of cricketers played a certain school. The tourists called themselves the Heathens, and they were bowled out for an ignominious score by two schoolboy bowlers named Wood and Stone. The captain of the school at prayers that night selected the hymn "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," and every boy put all he knew into the significant lines:

"The Heathens, in their blindness,
Bowed down to Wood and Stone."

EXCHANGE NO ROBBERY

It was Field Marshal Lord French who on being raised to the peerage remarked that thank heaven he need now sign only his surname for the benefit of autograph hunters.

At one time the famous soldier was compelled to refuse all applications of the kind owing to their ever increasing number, but at a certain social function a little girl brought her autograph book and begged so hard that he broke his rule for once and signed.

A few weeks later, at another similar function, he was surprised to see the same little girl approaching him with note book and pencil as before.

"Will you please give me your autograph?" she asked sweetly.

"But I gave it to you only a few days ago," said the Field-Marshal.

"Oh, yes," she replied, with a toss of her curly looks, "but I swapped that one for two admirals and a bishop."

CIDER FOR RHEUMATISM

A writer to a London paper, who is a martyr to rheumatism asked for a "non-Pussyfoot drink" which he could consume without dire results. The editor recommended cider. He wrote: "In cider drinking counties there is said to be a marked absence of such disorders." A Somerset poet sings its praises thus:

A Small Vocabulary May Have A Big Kick

BY RING W. LARDNER

To The Editor:

The other night I was to a party where they had a argument in regards to how many wds. is in the average man or lady's vocabulary which they meant how many wds. does a person use in their regular every day conversation and one lady said 4 or 5 thousand and one of the men give her the laugh and said 700 was nearer the mark, and of course I didn't take no part in the argument as they was all my elders but that didn't keep me from thinking over the question and maybe some of my readers would be interested in doing the same.

Well, in the first place you would naturally suppose that a woman's vocabulary was a whole lot bigger than a man's on acct. of them talking so much more, out on second thoughts that don't prove nothing as you will notice that the most women says the same thing over and over and a woman might say 10,000 wds. per day but only 10 different wds. like for inst:

"I wished we had a fier. The house is cold," which she is libel to say a 1,000 times making a total of 10,000 wds. that don't mean nothing.

As a matter of fact, a man though he don't talk nowheres near as much, don't repeat himself nowheres near as often, a specially since they fixed it so he had to quit saying, "Give us another," so wile a man may talk 100 wds. a day to a woman's 10,000, still they's libel to be 50 different wds. amongst his 100 and sometimes even more than that, though if a man does say 100 wds. the chances are that at least 50 of them is "Well."

Some men of course has more to say than others and they's been evenings in my career when I only said 2 wds. the whole evening, namely "stay" and "pass" and a few afternoons spent outdoors when my conversation was just the numeral wds. "seven" and "eight."

When all is said and done I suppose the number of wds. a person talks depends on what line of business they are in, like for example a doctor talks practically all the time where as a engineer on a R. R. or a fisherman don't hardly say nothing, and even some people talks more than others in the same business like for inst. a elevator man in a 22 story bldg. has twice as much to say as a elevator man in a 11 story bldg. and a train man on a subway local has to name maybe 30 or 35 stations wile a train man on a express only names 4 or 5, but as far as that is concerned for all the good they do, the both of them might as well keep their mouth shut.

THE IRDEDUCIBLE MINIMUM

A box office man in a N. Y. theater only has to say 2 wds. all day, namely, "Seventeenth row."

A man that runs a garage can get along on even less, as all he has to do is say, "No," when people call up to ask is their car ready yet.

In the old days, barbers use to do a lot of talking. They had a vocabulary of about 1,000 wds. which they would repeat them the same number of times per day as they had clients in their chair, but the funny papers and etc. begin to kid barbers about talking so as now a barber is almost scared to even say your hair is falling out, but it's agony for them to keep their mouth shut and their wives must get he-ll when they get home.

A traffic policeman's conversation varies according to what time of day it is. In the morning he only has to say "What do you think you are trying to do?" which is 9 wds. all together and only 7 of them different, but along in the afternoon when he ain't feeling so genial he adds 2 wds. making it:

"What the he-ll do you think you are trying to do?"

As for the motor man on a st. car they's generally always a sign that says don't talk to the motorman and I use to think that meant you mustn't talk to him and take his mind off his work, but wile rideing on the front platform of st. cars in N. Y. and Chicago I come to the conclusion that he don't want to be interrupted.

The facts of the matter is that nobody likes nobody for their vocabulary and no man ever married a gal because she could say 5,000 wds. besides yes or because she couldn't, and on the contrary one of my best friends is a man that don't hardly ever open his mouth only to take a fresh chew, but they say its nice for a person to know a whole lot of wds. even if they don't use them so when they are in church or rideing on a train or something they can amuse themselfs counting up the wds. they know.

As for a big vocabulary getting a person anywheres or doing them any good, they's a party liveing in our house that is 2 yrs. old and I don't suppose he has got a vocabulary of more than 200 wds. and even some of them sounds foreign, but this bird gets whatever he wants and I don't know of nobody who I would rather trade jobs with.

Which is about all the wds. I can write about wds., only to recommend to the reader a kind of a game I tried out the other day which was a couple days after the party and the game was to try and think every time before I spoke and count the number of wds. I used and count how many of them was necessary and how many could be left out and of course I forgot a couple times and said things without thinking or counting them, but you would be surprised at the few number of wds. it is necessary for a person to say in the course of a day and personly I come to the conclusion that a dumb mute ain't so much to be pitied after all and the people around him still less.

Samuel Goldwyn presents the Irresistible, Charming and Radiantly Beautiful Comedienne

in

One of the best and most delightful productions of her entire career

"THE KINGDOM OF YOUTH"

by Charles A. Logue.

It is a play that will appeal to everyone, from the youngest member of the family to the oldest. It is a story of sunshine and happiness, with a plentiful sprinkling of exciting adventure that insures the punch and the thrills.

OLYMPIC THEATRE
On Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6th and 7th
ADOLPH ZUKOR
PRESENTS
LINA CAVALIERI
in
"A Woman of Impulse"
The Peril of being Beautiful!
It Wasn't that she Didn't Love Her Husband!

Lina Cavalieri plays the part in this great picture of a daughter of Eve whose beauty was far too great for the safety of her own heart or the men's she encountered.

It wasn't that she did not love her husband, but simply that she drew other men to her almost unconsciously as the candle-flame does the poor doomed moth. And some of the moths were mighty dangerous.

"A Woman of Impulse" will stir you deeply by its likeness to the problems of Love as you know them.
